

ABSTRACT

The present invention generally relates to organic photosensitive optoelectronic devices. More specifically, it is directed to organic photovoltaic devices, e.g., organic solar cells. More specifically, it is directed to organic photosensitive optoelectronic devices that comprise a cyclometallated organometallic compound as a light absorbing material.